What We Offer and Why

Everything on this site was developed and used profitably by me. Having spent a lifetime starting and owning small businesses, particularly in the finance industry, I have been repeatedly asked for material on starting various businesses which I would assemble for them.

This happened so often that I saved the material so I would have it ready if someone else asked for it. Then someone told me that I should sell this information and that's what started this website.

As I mentioned above I developed all this including all the software and the forms and used it to profitably run each business. The other information offered came from other hobbies, interests and working tools for other endeavors like buying real estate or cars etc. You won't find this information any place but here and our prices are unbeatable.
